Mosaic of Longing

31 contributions received during the project year

Agrowing digital artwork in which people put their own longings toward political conditions into words— short texts, poems, images, sketches or wishes, submitted anonymously or by name.

This shop window of a luxury clothing store in a tropical setting depicts two people who appear to have everything and to be entirely self-sufficient. Each sits alone in a private refuge at an elegantly laid table, yet they remain separated from one another. Perhaps beneath the appearance of abundance lies a longing to be together, to truly belong with one another.

At a glance

- Format: continuously growing digital mosaic of individual “tiles”
- Submission: informal, by email — no technical barrier to take part
- Display: never identical twice — a button reshuffles the arrangement on each visit
- Evaluation: contributions were analysed qualitatively for recurring themes and motifs

How to contribute

Anyone can submit a tile: a short text, an image or a sketch expressing a personal longing directed at political or societal conditions. Contributions can be anonymous or signed, and become part of the collective, ever-changing artwork. Click on one of the tiles to explore.
